Senior Class Prophecy

TEN YEARS INTO THE FUTURE

Since I am very interested in welfare work, I was walking down skid-row to look over the condition of it. I happened to run into one of my classmates Bob Phipps. Poor Bob sat down and told me his past history. A story that would touch anyone's heart. Bob's biggest mistake, he was lazy. I invited Bob to my abode for supper. I told Bob I was rather rich, and he was welcome to share my food.

When we entered the house I told my butler, Wade Ewing, to call the maid at once. When the maid entered the room Bob was so startled that he actually fainted. You see the maid was Nancy Tangeman, alias Nancy McClintock. I knew Bob needed medical care so I called the doctor.

My doctor was highly recommended and highly expensive. The doctor was one of my old classmates Tarry Whetstone. As Dr. Whetstone and his nurse, Karin, examined Bob we talked of our high school days. Dr. Whetstone told us he had several of our classmates as patients. He said Patty and Frances had brought their children in during the morning for a check-up, and last night Jim Ransey was in to have his nose set. It was broken when he was drag racing with Bob Gibson. They had run into a brick building. The brick building was the site of a plastic industry run by Glenn R. and his wife Connie. Bob and Jim were arrested by the Chief of Police, who was none other than Bill Doering. Bob seemed to be recovering fairly well so the doctor left.

We ate supper in silence, when suddenly there was a loud knock on the door. When I answered the door there stood Margie Kill. She told me that she was working for a credit agency and was trying to get information on the credit standing of Bob Phipps. At that moment I heard the back door slam, and I knew if Margie wanted to see Bob she would have to take a walk down skid-row.

All in fun,

Carol Gossard

SO--LONG

Summer vacation is very near,

Time to leave the school we love so dear;

The field of mechanics appeals to "Homer,"

While "Goose" prefers to stay a roamer;

"Bull" and Karin hope to pursue the college life,

And graduate, someday, as man and wife;

"Wild Bill" hopes to live on a farm and raise horses,

But "Inky's" only goal is to join the Armed Forces;

For Carol and Margie the wedding bells will soon be ringing,

However, Patty and Nancy have plans for a career in singing;

Connie wishes to become a Broadway star,

While Wade's ambition is to travel far;

Frances Wagner wants to be a writer,

And Jim Ramsey hopes to become a fighter;

We wish them good luck in everything,

And hope that happiness is what their careers bring.
